FOSTERING HOPE AND LOVE

MAKE A DIFFERENCE

Foster parents fill a unique and absolutely vital role in every community across the country — their compassion and intentional, skilled care helps youth heal from trauma and develop their full potential. Fostering might be a good fit for you if you're great with kids.

SPECIAL NEEDS IN TEXAS

- Foster families who can accommodate 2 or more children. Siblings removed from their biological family's home fare better if they can stay together.
- Foster families that really understand and appreciate adolescence. Teenagers need loving, resilient foster families who "get" that stage of life and can show them love and support while helping them cope with an uncertain future.
- Foster families willing to work with children and youth who have a higher level of medical and behavioral health needs. Healing comes through acceptance and thorough follow-through on treatment and accessing expert support. meetings with our team and Child Protective Services.
